THE ECONOMIES OF CITY-REGIONS:
The Divergence of San Francisco and Los Angeles, 1970 to the Present

By: Michael Storper, Tom Kemeny, Naji Makarem, and Taner Osman
2013

Preface

Chapter I: The Divergent Development of City Regions

Part One: The Economics of Divergence

Chapter 2: Specialization: the Motor of Divergence
Chapter 3: People, Jobs and Wage Divergence: It’s not all skills and migration
Chapter 4: Pathways of Change: taking opportunities, missing others

Part Two: The Politics and Sociology of Divergence

Chapter 5: Local Economic Development Policy and Regional Economic Development
Chapter 6: Policy Agendas, Perceptions and World Views
Chapter 7: Business and Civic Networks: The Relational Infrastructure of Regions

Part Three: Explaining Divergent Development

Chapter 8: Regional Zeitgeist and Regional Economics
Chapter 9: Methods and Models: The Art of Understanding Regional Economies
Chapter 10: Can anything be done? Transforming Regional Worlds and Contexts

Notes

References